Greater Boston United War Fund Workers To Meet
In Senior High School - Arthur W. Sampson
Will Introduce Distinguished Speakers-Legion
Band To Furnish Music

Plans for a great patriotic rally of Arlington workers in the 1942 campaign of the Greater Boston United War Fund, which will be held in the auditorium of the Senior High School next Monday evening, at 8 o'clock, were announced last night by Arthur W. Sampson, general chairman of the campaign in Arlington.

In addition to chairmen, captains and solicitors, all citizens interested in the success of this year's vital campaign are invited to the rally. Workers are urged to bring their assistance to the welfare of Arlington social agencies.

The program will include music by the American Legion band and a color guard to escort the flag into the auditorium. The Arlington Red Cross flag will be escorted by women of the Arlington chapter in uniforms of the various divisions of the organization. One of the features of the evening will be a specially prepared reading by Miriam Hendrick Cahalan who will portray a series of characters to illustrate various aspects of United War Fund campaign work.

Mr. Sampson will preside and the principal speakers will be Maynard Hutchinson, general chairman of the campaign; Charles C. Cabot, chairman of the Metropolitan Divisions; and Monsignor Robert P. Barry, head of the Charitable Catholic Bureau, who is a member of the board of directors of the United War Fund and its executive committee. Monsignor Barry will be introduced by Rev. Matthew J. Flaherty of St. Agnes church.

Through the cooperation of George H. Greim, chief air raid warden of Arlington, all civilian defense activities for the evening of January 12 have been cancelled in order that air raid wardens may have an opportunity to attend the rally.

Chief usher of the rally will be Dr. Newell.

Tire Rationing Board Named

Howard E. Cousins of Brantwood Road Appointed Chairman - Paul A. Ziegler Is Administrative Secretary - Applicants Must Fill Out Form To Obtain New Tires

Arlington's Tire Rationing board was organized this week as this community undertook the task of parceling out a small allotment of new automobile tires under orders of the Office of Price Administration in Washington.

At the request of State Administrator Joseph B. Ely, the board of selectmen appointed three well-known citizens to make up the local rationing board. They are: Howard E. Cousins, former chairman of the finance committee; Milton Estabrook and Harry J. O'Reilly. The board in turn elected Paul Ziegler as administrative secretary. The board will meet every Monday and Friday evening at the police station to consider applications for new tires and tubes. For the month of January, Arlington is allotted 28 new tires and 24 tubes for passenger cars, and 36 tires and 30 tubes for motor trucks. Only 25% of this quota can be approved in any one week.

The drastic orders rationing automobile tires were made necessary to conserve rubber for United States defense needs. The type of vehicle eligible for new tires, upon application, includes fire trucks, ice and fuel trucks, public works and public utilities trucks, mail trucks, autos operated by physicians and nurses for professional services. A very limited number of other cases is included, and attempts were being made this week to have milk trucks included in the eligible list. Up until yesterday, these were not included. It is unlikely that passenger cars will be included for some time to come.

If tires can be retrofitted or recapped, new tires will not be authorized, it is understood. When a new tire is absolutely needed to continue to operate a car, or truck, the owner must get an application blank at the police station or postoffice. This blank must be filled out by the applicant and by any specification inspector (local automobile sales and service stations) who, after examining the condition of the worn-out tire, must testify as to the condition of the worn-out tire. The application is then presented to the Tire Rationing board for action. If favorable action is taken, the applicant may then purchase his tire from any store or automobile firm having the product on hand. Names of those allowed new tires will be posted each week in the lobby of the Robbins town hall.

Specification inspectors for Arlington include the Arlington Buick company, Arlington Center Garage, Arlington Motor Mart, Bobby's Auto Repair, Colonial Motors, Eddie's Repair Shop, P. C. Farmer, Reed Motor Co., Holtz Pontiac, Hy-Grade Motor Co., W. F. McManus, Packard Sales & Service, Parace Ignition Service, Charles B. Perham, Inc., R. & J. Auto Repair, J. A. Svedlund and W. G. Tenney.

Publisher Will Head Defense Savings Board

The board of selectmen this week appointed Arthur J. Mansfield, publisher of the NEWS as chairman of the Arlington Defense Savings committee.

Announcement of the appointment was made by Selectman William C. Adams, chairman of the board, following a meeting of the Defense Savings committee, held at the Arlington Five Cents Savings Bank on Friday afternoon. The special meeting was called to elect a successor to the late Nelson P. Bowers who was appointed as chairman of the Defense board when it was first organized.

Edward P. Clark was appointed to fill the vacancy left by Mr. Bowers and will serve as secretary and treasurer of the committee. Plans were discussed at Friday's meeting for the promotion of the sale of defense savings stamps and bonds through an active campaign throughout Arlington, in schools and business houses.

Other members of the committee are Joseph S. Keating, Earl A. Ryder, Henry G. Wilton and R. A. Stewart.

A CRUCIAL YEAR AHEAD

Those who have been satisfied to sit back and "relax" after the initial shock of Japan's attack upon Pearl Harbor and Manila, this week were brought face to face with the realization that this country is embarking upon a crucial period in its history.

That the United States is in for "a hard war, a long war, a bloody war, a costly war," to quote the words of President Roosevelt, is clearly indicated in this week's events.

Addressing Congress, the President promised to carry the war to the enemy with the mightiest armament program in our history. Production of ships, planes and tanks beyond all predictions will cost $56,000,000,000 this year alone. Based on 1940's population of 131 million, this amounts to a per capita cost of $427.80 for each man, woman and child in the nation.

Referring to the sacrifices ahead, the President stated, "War costs money. So far we have hardly begun to pay for it. This means taxes and bonds and bonds and taxes. The superiority of the united nations in munitions and ships must be overwhelming — so overwhelming that the Axis nations can never hope to catch up with us."

Not only will citizens be required to pay heavier taxes, but it is becoming clearer than ever that we must learn to get along without luxuries and even some necessities in order to conserve raw materials with which planes and ships are built. Those employed in non-defense work must make certain readjustments.

Along with these sacrifices, we face the danger of long-range air raids by "suicide" squadrons of Axis bombers the President warned. "Our people are not afraid of that," he added. "We know that we may have to pay a heavy price for freedom."

To be prepared for such possible attacks, J. W. Farley, head of the Massachusetts Committee on Public Safety again appealed to the people of Massachusetts this week to take seriously the rules and regulations that are published frequently in newspapers regarding air raid precautions. Persons who refuse to heed these rules are making a serious mistake, Mr. Farley stated.

In anticipation of huge federal expenditures and possible appropriations for home defense purposes, it is interesting to note too that the Massachusetts Selectmen's association has adopted a motion approving the drastic curtailment of all municipal expenses during the war emergency. Undoubtedly, Arlington town officials are also following this policy.

It is encouraging to find that while the government is demanding sacrifices, it is also taking action to protect consumers from profiteers. Every citizen is perfectly willing to make any necessary sacrifice in the way of taxes and purchases of defense bonds and stamps, but profiteering will raise havoc with morale.

The President has set our goal—We have raised our sights to meet it.

and its few roads. Gradually, spots of cultivated land began to appear in the midst of swamps and wilderness. Captain Cooke's mill had become a real influence in the life of the early settlers. Other enterprises came into existence.
In 1778 Charles Schmidt erected a cabinet making mill at about the same time that James Schouler, an immigrant from Scotland set up a cloth print works in West Cambridge. To Amos Whittemore, who invented a machine to make cotton and wool cards, goes credit of bringing unheard of prosperity to the town from 1779 to 1812 with the Whittemore Card Factory.
Other builders of Arlington industry were William Fletcher, who even carried ice into Boston for merchandise; Thomas Russell, who had a store in the center, and Captain Benjamin Locke, storekeeper at Massachusetts avenue and Forest street, and commander of the Minute-men.
Then there were Jason Russell, who was killed by the British on that memorable April 19, 1775; William Cutter, James Cutter, John Adams, millwright, who lived near the present railroad station in the center, and who assisted in the building of early mills.
Market gardening played a major role in the development of Arlington. Leading market gardeners whose names were important in the progress of the community include George Peirce, William Rawson, Albert Winn, Joseph Crosby, Cyrus Cutter, William Adams, Wyman, Frost, Bill and Nathan Robbins. Born in Menotomy in 1803, Robbins followed the footsteps of his father who was engaged in marketing. He was associated with Faneuil Hall Market long before Boston became a city. He founded a most profitable business which has been followed by several branches of the family.
Mr. Robbins, however, was also interested in enterprises other than the market. He was a loyal son of Arlington. To him and his family, Arlington is indebted for its beautiful town hall, public library and the family mansion known as the Robbins House.
Born in Vermont, John P. Squire came to live in Arlington in 1846 and entered the employ of Nathan Robbins. Later he formed a partnership under the name of John P. Squire company, one of the largest and best equipped meat packing houses in the country.
Market gardening was not Arlington's only early industry. Its early mills and industries included Samuel A. Fowle's mill used for grinding corn, drugs, paints, etc. (Mr. Fowle became widely known as the manufacturer of Arlington Wheat Meal, sold in every grocery store in New England). William Cutter's corn and saw mill; Cyrus Cutter's grist mill; William Welsh and Charles Griffiths, saw makers, who in 1838 changed an interest in the business to James A. Bailey and Charles Griffiths and Company, pioneer of the saw-making industry in America; Hobbs Mill where knives for splitting leather were manufactured; the Theodore Schwamb company, manufacturers of piano cases; and William T. Wood's ice tool manufacturing plant, occupied by Vail Brothers who are engaged in the wood finishing business.
The colonial life of Arlington began fifteen years after the landing of the Pilgrims (1635). It was called Menotomy, meaning "swift running water". As part of Cambridge, Menotomy then had no government of its own.
Massachusetts avenue, on which the Daniel F. O'Brien funeral home is located, was then only a road cleared through the wilderness over which Cambridge people were obliged to travel to Captain Cooke's Mill. Charlestown people came over a similar road now known as Broadway.
In 1732, the people pleaded with the General Court to establish a church of their own here. This was granted and Arlington became known as the Second Precinct of Cambridge. In 1807, the General Court created West Cambridge, a separate township, and what is now Arlington had its own government and really began its separate life. Country roads were made into streets, sidewalks were built and the first public library in Massachusetts was established here. A town hall was built in the center, the horse car came, streets were then lighted by gas, a savings bank was founded and a high school was established. Arlington was steadily growing in population and by the end of the Civil War it had reached almost three thousand people.
In 1867, John S. Potter suggested that the name of the town be changed to Arlington in memory of those buried in the Arlington National cemetery, Arlington, Virginia. The name was accepted and four years later the town seal was officially adopted. Arlington was still a country village with its post-office in the town hall where you had to call for your mail. Across the street were the town scales and the town pump. Old homesteads were along the other side of the avenue. Squire Russell's home was at the corner of Mystic street and Massachusetts avenue. The ancient Cooper Tavern was at the corner of Medford street and Broadway. East Arlington, where the new O'Brien home is located, was still being used for market gardens with mansions and a few stores along the avenue.

Before 1900 many Boston business and professional men had built large homes in Arlington as this became a community of homes. In that year, two family houses began to grow in popularity and Arlington gradually changed from a farming and industrial town to a suburban community. Between 1920 and 1930 many of the market gardens were cut up into house lots. Among these were the Rawson, Allen, Lyons and Russell farms. In recent years, a considerable number of single houses were constructed and the Wyman Farm, now Kelwyn Manor, not far from the O'Brien funeral home, became one of the town's new developments.
Still Arlington continued to grow until it was impossible for everyone to go and vote at Town Meeting. The solution was the so-called Representative Town Meeting form of government with fourteen precincts. Although Arlington today is large enough to become a city, it has chosen to retain its town form of government.
As Arlington homes have increased, hundreds of families from all parts of Greater Boston, aware of the advantage which Arlington offers, have bought homes here. They are scattered throughout the community and have been rapidly assimilated. They take an active interest in civic affairs and many have added to the cultural and artistic development of the community.
Quoting from a booklet published by the Arlington Co-operative Bank, "The country village has become a metropolitan suburban town, but through all the inevitable changes we have kept it a good town to live in—a good town to call home." That is why Daniel F. O'Brien is proud of the privilege of opening a new funeral establishment here and take his place among the business and professional builders of Arlington.
(Watch for the "Historical Arlington" series, with particular emphasis on the part played by Arlington in the Revolutionary War, to be presented by the Daniel F. O'Brien funeral home, in the columns of the NEWS.)

Evening Of Fun For Woman's Club Guests

In these days of stress and uncertainty an evening of fun is not only enjoyable but is a necessity occasionally. Just such an evening of relaxation is being presented by the program chairman, Mrs. Stanley R. Kingman, of the Arlington Woman's Club for members and their guests next Thursday evening at eight o'clock in the Robbins Memorial town hall. Bertram Adams, the wizard of Brookline, will bewitch his audience into a spirit of fun with his clever presentation of a program of psychological deceptions. Astounding memory feats will be coupled with demonstrations of thought control, second sight and mind reading, as new as tomorrow's scientific discoveries. He will also perform feats of wizardry learned from such notables in the fraternity of miracle makers as Herman the Great, Keller, Thurston, Houdini and others. Mr. Adams is known to many club audiences in New England; among his recent appearances was a performance for the Woman's City Club of Boston.

The music of the evening is as unusual and entertaining as the magician and will be furnished by Mary P. Tower and her daughter, Barbara J. Tower, concert pianists of wide reputation. Their renditions on two pianos are brilliant and performed with technique and finish. Miss Barbara has the distinction of being the only American pianist to receive the Grand Prix at the Paris Conservatoire.

Refreshments and dancing to Ken Reeve's orchestra will round out an evening of relaxation and fun. Honored guests of the evening are to be the selectmen of Arlington and their wives, also the president of the Junior Woman's Club.

The auditor of the Arlington Woman's Club will be at Foster & Evans Gift shop, 693 Mass. avenue, next Tuesday, from 1-5 p.m. to sell tickets for the Guest Night of January 15 at Robbins Memorial Town Hall. Each member is entitled to one ticket which may be procured from the auditor by payment of tax. Guest tickets are also available at advertised price.

Annual Meeting At
St. John's Church
Next Monday Night

St. John's Episcopal church will hold its annual parish meeting next Monday evening at eight o'clock in the parish hall. Like an old-fashioned New England town meeting, this will be for all members of St. John's. Reports will be made by the leaders of the various organizations. The Rev. Mr. Hatch, will speak.

New officers will be elected, and there will be an opportunity for everyone who wishes to do so to advance new ideas or make suggestions. Refreshments will be served, and there will be a period of fellowship when old members can welcome those who are still new at St. John's.

MISS KEEFE ENGAGED

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen T. Keefe of 128 Washington street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Virginia Margaret, to Kermit A. Locke, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Locke, of Needham, Mass. A February wedding is planned.

Flynn Smashes Window In Attempt To Put Out Blaze On Brattle St.

William Flynn, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bartholemew Flynn of 7 Laurel street is still receiving medical treatment for severe laceration of the right hand which he suffered Tuesday afternoon of last week when he drove his fist through a window to put out a fire in a nearby home.

William saw a Christmas tree afire in the first floor apartment of Mrs. Margaret DeLuzio at 18 Brattle street. Armed with a pall of water, he tried to enter the home but doors were locked. He then smashed the window and single-handedly attempted to put out the fire. Meanwhile firemen arrived on the scene and extinguished the blaze.

CROSBY P. T. A. MEETING

Special agent G. V. Doherty of the F. B. I. will be the guest speaker at the meeting of the Crosby Parent-Teachers' association next Tuesday evening. The Cutter P. T. A. orchestra will furnish music.

Beyond Price

Whether serving the lowly or the great the quality of our service cannot differ.

MONEY regulates standards of living. Everyday needs are classified by grades and prices accordingly. Although there is less servility in this country, higher priced merchandise and service are usually accompanied by a higher degree of consideration and solicitude. People of large financial resources attain a certain importance denied to mortals of moderate means.

But at the entrance to this modern funeral establishment the sale of privileges stops.

In our mortuary there are no luxuries of facilities or appointments nor solicitous attendance furnished to one class and denied to another. The casket may symbolize financial status but the cost of a funeral be it high or low cannot add to nor detract from the true dignity, memorable beauty and heartfelt respect present in every ceremony we conduct.

The pay check looks pretty good these days. But we're not throwing money away. Not us. I work hard for it, and that money's going to work hard for us. That's why my wife's buying all her food at Stop and Shop. The prices are low, and everything she gets tastes mighty good. Yes, sir. We think it's sensible to save money on Food at Stop and Shop.

OUR EMPLOYEES
AND

1942

A YEAR AGO companies in the New England Power system, in outlining their policy of preparedness as a part of the country's National Defense program, placed particular emphasis upon the important part employees would play in this patriotic effort.

THIS YEAR, with eighteen or twenty men needed in defense industries to back up each fighting man in Uncle Sam's forces and with our country in a state of war against ruthless and treacherous aggressors, we have a deep satisfaction in knowing that —

1. Our employees are skillful, well-trained men and women, many of whom have spent the greater part of their lives in our service.
2. Our employees know their jobs thoroughly and have a deep sense of responsibility as to their parts in the National Defense Program.
3. The physical properties these employees operate are in good order.
4. Our employees, as soldiers of industry, have a vitally important job in supplying indispensable materials to the armed forces of our country.

As their modest contribution in an America that is united and determined, our employees dedicate their every effort to the preservation of the ideals of this great democracy!

What About Shutting Off Of Gas Service In Air Raid Alarm?

Inasmuch as there has been considerable confusion in the minds of the public regarding the shutting off of gas service during an air raid alarm, a statement has been issued from the Office of Civilian Defense, in Washington, in an attempt to clear up this question.

The American Gas Association recommends that you make no attempt to shut off the main gas valve. Simply turn off the stove burners that are lit but not the pilot light. If the house is badly damaged the main gas valve should be shut off. Once the main valve is turned off, for any reason, do not turn it on again yourself. Call for a trained man. Your local gas company is working out further detailed directions with your local defense council. Watch for these instructions, then follow them.

A FRANK STATEMENT BY CHAS. P. DOLAN

We had every right to believe, in August and September, that this was going to be a banner year for furs. So, naturally, we bought in anticipation of tremendous business. We could not foresee that the tax would come so quickly... nor that we would have the warmest Winter in many years... nor that at the normal height of the season war would come. Well, these things all happened... fur coat buying came to a standstill—and we are left with a huge stock of fur coats. We must dispose of them, so I have marked every one down and down and down! It's the opportunity of a lifetime for you. All our own stock. All guaranteed Dolan quality.
